Ruhr Railwaymen Report In Large Numbers To Allies

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 18.—Advices from Paris indicate that one of the main objects of the interview of the German Charge d'Affaires with M. Poincare yesterday was to justify Germany's announcement that she is unable to finance resumption of reparations deliveries in kind. M. Poincare emphatically pointed out that no negotiations were possible until the deliveries were resumed. A similar communication elicited a similar reply from Brussels.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 17.—Herr von Hoesch, the German Charge d'Affaires, today had a forty minutes' interview with M. Poincare on the subject of restoration of normal conditions in the occupied territories.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 17.—The German railwaymen, who have been authorised by the German Minister of Transport to place themselves from today at the disposal of the Franco-Belgian Railway Regie, are presenting themselves in large numbers at the Regie stations in order to resume work. They are received individually and are only accepted after having signed a contract. Resumption of work in the postal, telegraph and telephone services in the Ruhr is general.

As a result of incidents caused by the suppression of the Bread cards for the indigent and by the high cost of living, the Berlin Municipality is making great efforts to help the poor. Thirty-two thousand people have received food and twenty thousand meals, half of them free, are being distributed daily.

All were greatly impressed by the films, which were taken immediately after the disaster and were reviewed in these columns a week ago.

Alleged Arms Deals On Russ Ships Here Draws Protests From Moscow

Soviet Holds Peking Responsible For Failure To Prevent Refugee Ships From Entering Chinese Waters

The Soviet Government has handed a memorandum to the Chinese Government insisting that China adopt a different attitude toward Russian refugee vessels in Chinese waters, and charging that the Chinese authorities in Shanghai and Chekiang have rendered assistance and aid to the enemies of the Soviet, according to a Rosta News Agency dispatch from Peking.

The note throughout has reference to the alleged purchase of arms and munitions from the Russian vessels by Captain L. D. Kearny Captain Kearny's trials have already been held in the United States Court for China and decisions are still held up pending the taking of depositions from Admiral Tu, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese Navy in one case, and Civil Governor Chang and Magistrate Hu of Hangchow, in the second case.

The memorandum was handed the Peking Government by the Extraordinary Plenipotentiary Mission of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and emphasises that in August the Soviet called the attention of the Chinese Government to the necessity of China either refusing to permit the Russian refugee ships to sail into Chinese waters, or to arrest them when they did so and turn them over to Mr. Elleder, the representative of the Russian Volunteer Fleet in Shanghai. The Soviet's contention is that the ships are the property of the Soviet, and not of the refugees or their leaders, and that the present possessors are in unlawful possession.

The memorandum met with no response, the new note says, but on the contrary the vessels were allowed to sail into Woosung where, the note continues, "there was a tendency noticeable in all the doings of the Chinese authorities in Shanghai and in the province of Chekiang to render all possible assistance to the criminal elements on the ships."

THE ELDORADO

The memorandum makes specific mention of the s.s. Eldorado, which Captain Kearny chartered in Gensan, Korea, and which came to China and was for a time anchored in Chekiang waters, and alleges that arms on board the vessel were sold to the representative of a certain Chinese General as late as September 20.

The Eldorado's chartering led to United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar making an investigation of the alleged arms deals which resulted in the arrest of Captain Kearny and several others still awaiting trial. The vessel has now sailed for an unknown destination, according to reports from Hangchow.

The memorandum insists that China at once take measures leading toward the arrest and detention of the steamships Mongugai, Zastchitnik and Okhotsk, as well as the Eldorado, and hand them over to the representative of the R.V.F. in Shanghai, and concludes that the Soviet Government will not recognise the legality of the sale of any of the vessels by the "Whites" under whatever guise such deals are transacted as they are sole property of the Soviet Government.

CONSUL FULLER CONFIRMS REPORT OF RESIGNATION

Will Be Associated With Oil Firm In Calcutta

Mr. Stuart J. Fuller, American Consul-General at Tientsin, has issued a statement in Tientsin officially confirming the report that he had resigned from the American Consular service, as published yesterday by THE CHINA PRESS.

Mr. Fuller's resignation took effect immediately and Mr. J. C. Huston, who has been Acting Consul in charge during Mr. Fuller's absence in the United States, will remain in the charge of the Consulate pending the appointment of a successor.

The resignation of Mr. Fuller comes as the climax to a series of interesting events in the North in which he has been the storm center. He has been bitterly attacked for his official actions in several matters for some time by the North China Star, the American newspaper of Tientsin, and just as warmly defended by the North China Mail, one of Tientsin's British papers.

Mr. Fuller went home on leave several months ago and during the time he was in the United States official announcement was made from Washington that he was to be transferred to Yokohama to succeed Mr. Max Kirjassoff, the American consul who was killed in the earthquake. The announcement, however, was followed within a few days by another to the effect that he would return to Tientsin. His resignation followed upon his return to Tientsin a few days ago.

Mr. Fuller expects to leave Tientsin about November 20 to go to Calcutta where he will be associated with Messrs. L. C. Gillespie, a large oil exporting firm.

Premier Of Australia Voices Plea At London

BASE IS NEEDED

Washington Ratio Is Ineffectual In Pacific

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 17.—Mr. S. M. Bruce, the Australian Prime Minister, interviewed by Reuter's representative, expressed the hope that the Dominions would endorse the principle of one Empire Navy because the maintenance unimpaired of the strength and authority of the Empire Navy was a matter of the utmost concern to every British country, since the Navy had to safeguard trade routes throughout the world. He pointed out that need for expenditure no longer arose in connection with shipbuilding in competition with other Powers but in modernising fuel-stations and in the re-equipment of naval bases. Mr. Bruce declared that without a base in the Pacific which would permit of the docking of modern capital ships both the Pacific Ocean and the Indian Ocean were virtually closed to the British Fleet. The "Washington ratio was ineffectual in the Pacific as far as the British Empire was concerned.

Czech President Flays Prussianism In Speech During Visit To Paris

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 17.—This morning President Masaryk and President Millerand visited the wireless station at Ste Assise, from which the French President addressed to the Allies and friendly nations, especially Czecho-Slovakia, a message of sympathy espressing the hope that "the waves launched by Ste Assise may always be messages of peace and workers in fraternal collaboration between nations."

President Masaryk was later entertained to luncheon at the Czecho-Slovak Legation.

After luncheon the two Presidents, accompanied by Dr. Benes, visited the Institute of Slav Studies, which was founded in 1919 by Professor Ernest Denis with the generous assistance of the Czecho-Slovak and Jugo-Slav Governments and offered to the University of Paris by the Czecho-Slovak Republic with a national endowment. Addresses were delivered in the library by the director of the Institute, M. Antoine Meillet, who recalled that "this scientific foundation should by study of the Slavic world work to prepare a new Europe in accordance with the national tendencies of historic development and the will of peoples," and the Rector, M. Appel, who explained how proud the University of Paris was to inaugurate an Institute of Slav Studies.

President Masaryk retraced the political evolution of Eastern Europe under the influence of the French Revolution; which he compared with the isolation of German Imperialism. Aggressive from its origin the Prussian State had dominated Germany. Doubtless what was called Statism had also exercised a noticeable influence in the West, but in the West the State had become the organ of Parliament and public opinion, whilst in Germany it had become a divinity whose absolute commands were accepted by all. Humanitarian ideals, which had their origin in the evolution of the West, were replaced by Pan-Germanism and Imperialism. Berlin had endeavoured to dominate Europe and thereby even Asia and Africa. The ideal of the West was humanity first of all, the union of Europe and America and eventually that of the whole human race. In the world war this union was realised. In conclusion President Masaryk said that the Westernism had been proved in the war. The Germans and Austrians had been defeated by the West. The victory had not been only a victory of soldiers but also one of culture, and the only thing that was left for the Germans was to rally to the directing ideas of the West and the better amongst them recognised that today.

DISPUTE OVER TUCHUN TIEN ON IN PEKING

Dismissal Mandate Angers Diplomatic Corps, Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 18.—The relations of the Chinese Government vis-a-vis the Diplomatic Body have been disturbed as the outcome of the Presidential Mandate accepting the resignation of the Tuchun of Shantung, General Tien Chung-yu, and promoting him Shang Chiangchun which the Diplomatic Body considers a violation of the promises under which it was understood that he would be dismissed.

The Chinese press carry a semi-official report that the Doyen of the Diplomatic Body has handed an ultimatum to the Government demanding withdrawal of the Mandate within 48 hours. This cannot be confirmed but it is known that the Diplomatic Body views the situation seriously.

High Chinese officials called on several Legations today to endeavor to explain the matter.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 18.—It is expected that a Presidential Mandate relating to the question of General Tien Chung-yu's appointment as Shang Chuang-chun will be issued. It is learned on good authority in this connection that the Presidential Mandate endorses the assertion of Mr. Kao Ling-wei, Minister of the Interior, that inasmuch as the said appointment has long been decided upon by the Central Government, it has nothing to do with the punishment to be inflicted upon General Tien.

Police Bid Farewell To Popular Chief Inspector

Shanghai today bids farewell to Chief Inspector James McGregor, for more than twenty-seven years a salient incentive factor toward the peace and good order of the Settlement—and one of the most popular officials in the Shanghai Municipal Police Department.

Chief Inspector McGregor—who is the first official of the local force to retire under the new pension system—and Mrs. McGregor are sailing for their homeland—Scotland—by the N. Y. K. steamer Hakusan Maru this morning, the tender leaving the Customs jetty at 7 o'clock.

The esteem in which Mr. McGregor is held by his comrades of the department and the regret with which they view his departure was eloquently indicated last evening when he was called to Louza Station to receive a presentation from his fellow foreign members of the force and listen to expressions of sincerest sense of loss and best wishes for a pleasant voyage and a happy retirement in his native land. The recreation rooms at Louza were crowded with members from all ranks of the force just before dinner time last evening when Chief Inspector R. C. Alers, as master of ceremonies, brought the gathering to order and called upon Deputy Commissioner of Police Major A. H. Hilton-Johnson to make the presentation speech preliminary to the handing over to Chief Inspector McGregor of a handsomely bound and illuminated address and a sizeable check—the tokens of regard from the foreign branch.

The assembly, Major Hilton-Johnson said, had come together for two purposes—to say farewell to an esteemed comrade and to pay tribute to that comrade for his unfailing and efficient services in the department. One came to such a gathering with mixed feelings. It was with real sorrow that they contemplated the departure of their comrade. On the other hand they might feel the satisfaction of being able in a small way to show their regard for him.

"Chief Inspector McGregor," he said, "came to the service just over 27 years ago, and in his service of more than a quarter of a century he has given his best to the community which we all serve.

"He came to Shanghai when it was comparatively a little place and he has 'grown up with it.' And in so doing he has taken his full share of the troubles and difficulties which are the lot of the police officer. He has served under five Police Commissioners and, at one or another time during his service, he has been in charge of most of the stations in Shanghai.

"He has always been the good friend of young officers in the Force and he has always been a true and loyal colleague to his superior and fellow officers. He has seen many men go from Shanghai, and now his turn has come. It is our desire to record at this time the esteem in which we hold him and the good wishes which he will carry from us, with hopes for a long and well earned rest.

"Chief Inspector McGregor, on behalf of the men whose names are herein inscribed, I wish to present you with this illuminated address, together with a check with which we feel you will be able perhaps to buy that which we could not get for you here.

"In conclusion I would say, as the Chinese say, 'Nien, Nien Ju Yi!'—May things turn out hereafter as you would have them."

The illuminated address presented to the retiring Chief Inspector is bound in green levant, with handsome silver mountings and a silver shield suitably inscribed upon the front cover. On the inner cover the Police colors—dark blue and red—are carried out in silk, while the address itself, with illuminated initials, is beautifully executed upon vellum.

The fly leaf carries the legend.

CAN'T GET CLOTHES UNTIL HE PAYS HIS HOTEL BILL

Claims Against F. W. Howard And Laurence Lienston By Astor House

Mr. Laurence Lienston will have to continue ranking about the thoroughfares of Shanghai without a change of clothing unless he pays the Astor House his bill, or unless Mr. F. W. Howard, his employer, pays it for him.

Mr. Lienston and Mr. Howard were sued in the British Supreme Court yesterday for $844.65 alleged to be due the Shanghai Hotels, Ltd. Mr. Howard and Mr. Lienston both admitted owing at least a part of the claim but said they had no money with which to pay.

"Without warning of any kind I was turned out at 1.30 o'clock in the morning," Mr. Howard said. I owe some of the claim, but not all of it. There are certain chits for motor cars and laundry that I do not owe. In addition I notified the manager of the Astor House that I was not taking meals there, but he failed to give me a reduction."

ON HIS BACK

Mr. Lienston said the only clothes he had were on his back. The hotel, he said, had got hold of all of his clothing and he didn't have even a change of linen.

"I have not even a change of shirt," Mr. Lienston declared, "surely something can be done. I can't be expected to go about like this."

His Lordship explained that under the law the hotel had a lien on his clothing and could hold it until the bill was paid.

Mr. Mancell Reece, for the plaintiff, said they had given the defendants plenty of time in which to pay and had expressed their willingness to accept even a part but that not a cent was forthcoming. The defendant could pay something, at least, he said.

Mr. Howard replied that he had lost $15,000 in the show business in the last three months and although he now had a show in the French Concession he had no funds.

Leave to defend the case was given and the hearing set for Tuesday.

Another case against Mr. Howard, brought by the Hotel Parisien for $309 was also adjourned until Tuesday.

PHILIPPINES LEGISLATURE ASKS RECALL OF GOV. WOOD

Resolution Hitting At Governor-General Is Adopted

CLIMAX OF FIGHT

Move Had Its Origin In Conflict On Powers

(Reuter's Service)

Manila, Oct. 17.—The Legislature has passed a resolution demanding the recall of Governor-General Wood.

The action of the Philippine legislature in demanding the recall of Governor-General Leonard Wood was predicted several months ago. The move had its genesis in the fight that has been raging between the Governor-General and the Filipino politicos over the Governor-General's powers under the provisions of the Jones Act.

General Wood, upon assumption of his duties, immediately set about undoing some of the work that Governor-General Harrison, his Democratic predecessor, had done. Under the changes Senate President Manuel Quezon lost a great deal of his power and immediately started a revolt.

The fight, at first was under the surface but after a controversy over the dismissal of an American who headed the secret police, came out in the open and developed into a bitter campaign during which all the members of the Governor-General's cabinet resigned—to be immediately replaced by the undersecretaries. Mayor Fernandez of Manila also resigned and a successor was appointed by General Wood.

NON-COOPERATION

Mr. Quezon subsequently called upon all Filipinos to follow out a policy of non-co-operation with General Wood and that status exists today although the government is functioning as usual. The election of Mayor Fernandez, Quezon's candidate for Senator from the Fourth Senatorial District was predicted to be the final assurance Quezon needed before actually demanding that General Wood be recalled.

Secretary of War Weeks, according to a special dispatch carried in THE CHINA PRESS yesterday, has cabled General Wood that the government is standing squarely back of him. A majority of the American press is also supporting General Wood as well as all Americans and Europeans in the islands, the two principal Manila newspapers, and the Democrata party.

General Wood is opposed by the politicos headed by Quezon Roxas and Osmena, by the Philippines Herald and most of the native papers, and is opposed in the United States by two or three newspapers, notably the Chicago Tribune.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, Oct. 17.—The administration is expressing anxiety over the action of the Philippine legislature in adopting a resolution demanding the recall of Governor-General Leonard Wood and announcement that a resolution would be introduced favoring a declaration of independence.

The government is informed that the situation is growing extremely tense.

(Exclusive China Press)

Manila, Oct. 17.—The Filipino Independence Mission to the United States, which in addition to making the usual plea for independence will lay the politicos side of the controversy with Governor-General Wood before government officials, will leave Manila early in November according to definite announcement made today.

The mission will be headed by Senate President Manuel Quezon and Speaker Roxas of the House, and will include a large number of the most prominent Nationalistas in the islands, including Senator Osmena. They will cooperate in Washington with Resident Commissioner Guevera.

The mission is expected to make a tour of the States advancing the cause of independence in addition to making representations to President Coolidge, Secretary Weeks and the members of Congress, and, it is reported, will remain in the United States until after both the Republican and Democratic national conventions early next year. The commission will make a fight to have a plank calling for the independence of the Islands inserted in both the Republican and Democratic platforms.

Police Bid Farewell To Popular Chief Inspector

was given by Mr. W. T. Rankin, formerly a member of the Police Department, but since retired, who rose to make a presentation to the Chief Inspector on behalf of himself and other former members of the Force. The other old comrades as he expressed it, are Messrs. Ebgley, Langford and Biggs.

Following the program of speeches there was a lusty rendering of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and the gathering then dropped all formality and clustered about the departing official for an interesting hour or so of swapping reminiscences and bidding individual goodbyes.

But before this the healths of Mr. McGregor and Mrs. McGregor were enthusiastically proposed and drunk by the company, standing.

Shanghai Municipal Police at Shanghai, October 15, 1923, on his retirement from the force."

Over the page is continued the following illuminated address:

"James McGregor, Esquire, Chief Inspector of the Shanghai Municipal Police, Shanghai, China 1923.

"We, the undersigned members of the Foreign Branch of the Shanghai Municipal Police, who have had the pleasure of your comradeship during your 27 years' service in the force, desire to place on record our highest appreciation and esteem for your unfailing good-fellowship, courtesy and fairmindedness, which you have always shown.

"We wish to yourself and to Mrs. McGregor a safe and pleasant voyage back to the homeland, and sincerely trust that good health and happiness will ever attend you during your well-earned rest and retirement."

Then follow the names of 143 members of the Foreign Branch of the Police.

Chief Inspector W. R. Kinniple, in the course of a humorous talk referred to the occasion as being unique and expressed the thought that all present were probably hoping that some day they might stand in Chief Inspector McGregor's place at similar gatherings.

Chief Inspector S. C. Young of Central Station, in a brief and well-turned speech paid further sincere tribute to the retiring official. They all appreciated, he said, Chief Inspector McGregor's good qualities and were especially cognisant of his interest in the men he served with and his unwavering devotion to duty. It was one of his characteristics that he never spared himself in the interests of the community and in pursuance of the routine of police duty. He well might serve as an example and an inspiration to the men of the Force.

Eloquently attesting to the esteem in which Mr. McGregor has always been held by his co-workers was the next brief speech. This

Hangchow Pays Tribute To Veteran Woman President

(China Press Correspondence)

Hangchow, Oct. 16.—The Christian community of Hangchow united today in an interesting celebration in honor of Miss M. Laurence, on the occasion of her eightieth birthday and her fiftieth year in China.

Her first station in China was at Ningpo where she began work in 1873. Before that however she was located in Japan for some years, and still retains her ability to speak the Japanese language. She is a widely known and influential character in the province of Chekiang.

The celebration today took the form of a service in the Chinese Episcopal Church and then of a tiffin given largely by men now grown old, who in their earlier years had worked with Miss Laurence either here or in Ningpo.

A feature of the celebration were telegrams from Hon. C. T. Wang and Mr. C. C. Nieh, Mr. Wang is a godson of Miss Laurence and Mr. Nieh was a pupil, one of nine who used to sit daily at her feet in the old feudal yamen of Manchu days in 1904, when Mr. Nieh's father was governor of the province. Mr. Nieh was the third son of the governor, and the eldest of the nine pupils in the school which was made up entirely of members of the governor's household. Miss Laurence occupied a suite of four rooms in the yamen.

Aside from the large number of local friends whom she has introduced into Christian circles, there is a full fledged and prosperous church which will stand long as a monument to Miss Laurence and her faithful work. Even while she was teacher in the governor's family she kept with her those her Bible woman, and daily she would go out on her preaching missions in that section of the city. In 1904 with the converts whom she had won as a nucleus the C. M. S. Church on the Yang Kyai was formed, and a few years ago when Miss Laurence gave the work up, there were thirty baptised members. Friends here are congratulating Miss Laurence on her nine years of achievement and experience, and wishing her many years of usefulness still. Age does not make her retire.

ROTARIANS HEAR TALKS ON NEED OF VOLUNTEERS

Appeals Also Made At Tiffin For Recruits For Police Reserves

The need of recruits to swell the ranks and files of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps as well as the Police Reserves was clearly demonstrated by Colonel W. F. L. Gordon, Commandant of the S. V. C., Mr. Stirling Fessenden, chairman of the Municipal Watch Committee and Mr. R. G. McDonald, assistant commissioner, speaking before the Shanghai Rotary Club at the Astor House yesterday.

The club yesterday held one of the largest open meetings in its history. Besides the speaker, the club also invited the captains of the various units of the Settlement's defense force, while the individual members had many private guests who listended to the speakers with interest.

Colonel Gordon gave a brief review of the history of the Corps since its inception 74 years ago and pointed out that the majority of the calls issued for the mobilisation of the forces were made only during recent years, which have been intercepted with political turmoil and labor trouble. He then appealed to the audience for more men to join his corps.

Mr. Fessenden, taking up the subject left by the colonel, stated that if he had his ways as chairman of the watch committee we would like to see 2,500 men join up. It was during his tenure of office that an appropriation of Tls. 280,000 was made for the equipment of the corps, which, he asserted, second to none as far as equipments and financial support are concerned. He also pointed out the growing feeling of restlessness among the labor elements in Shanghai and expressed the possibility of a general strike in the future, when the service of the corps would be most invaluable in the protection of lives and property in the settlement.

Commissioner MacDonald related the history of the Police Reserve, mentioning especially the work of the special constables organisation which has since been disbanded. While there are today about 200 in the Police Reserve, the number is too small for any emergency. Mr. MacDonald said that there was no rivalry between the S. V. C. and the Police Reserves, because the latter could use "less young" men in its service.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the Astor; and the speaker will be Junius Wood, Special Far Eastern Correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, who will discuss the economic and social aspects of China's present situation.

Drowning Curse Clings To Battle Abbey

Battle Abbey

THE death by drowning of Sir Augustus Webster, the owner of Battle Abbey, recalls in a startling manner the "drowning curse" on the historic spot. Battle Abbey was built on the scene of the Battle of Hastings, in England, as a monastery, but a later English king dispossessed the monks and gave the castle to one of his favorites. A monk is said to have cursed the place, predicting that all its owners would drown. Many did. The eighth Lord Montague, who owned it before the Websters, was drowned. Twenty-two years later his sister was drowned. The estate was then let to Michael Grace, an American millionaire, and his daughter, Mrs. Hubert Beaumont, was drowned. Lady Webster was drowned while trying to save her daughter, Evelyn, from drowning. Sir Augustus's only son was killed in the World War.

His Excellency said that he felt a very strong sense of personal loss. Mr. Ross was a very efficient officer and one of the last papers which His Excellency received officially with regard to Mr. Ross was a high tribute from the Postmaster-General to the ability Mr. Ross displayed in winding up the British Postal Agencies in China. Mr. Ross had a loveable character, was widely read and had an original mind and a fine sense of humor. The Governor proposed that a note should be made in the minutes of the Council of the regret with which the Council learned of the death of this valuable officer.

Publish Directory Of American Wood Products

A directory which will be of much value to the lumber industry has just been issued by the Lumber Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, entitled: "Directory of Exporters of American Lumber and Wood Products." This publication has been compiled on the basis of information supplied by lumber and wood products firms themselves, in response to a questionnaire sent out by the Lumber Division.

Many small sawmills can often sell a part of their output to other exporters but can not handle direct export transactions. This directory will help such mills to get in touch with exporters to handle their surplus.

Some exporters do not handle all lines for which they have calls. It is the purpose of the directory to put these exporters in touch with other exporters who do handle these products.

The publication will further be useful to manufacturers of sawmill machinery and sawmill and logging equipment, forwarding agents, marine insurance brokers, credit agencies, and transportation companies.

Copies may be obtained by application to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., or to any of the district and co-operative offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Price 10 cents prepaid.

MRS. HICKS IS WINNER OF TENNIS TITLE

Defeats Mrs. Moss In Straight Sets 8-6, 7-5

STAMINA HELPS

Contest Hard Fought With Both Players Tired At End

The final match to determine the ladies tennis championship of Shanghai was played yesterday at the courts of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis association at the new Majestic hotel, and resulted in a win for Mrs. Hicks over Mrs. Moss in straight sets, 8—6, 7—5.

In the early part of the play there was little to choose between the two finalists, although Mrs. Hicks seemed a bit steadier than her opponent. Mrs. Hicks used an underhand service while Mrs. Moss employed the more orthodox overhead style. In the matter of service efficiency the players were about equal. Mrs. Hicks was stronger at placing the ball along the sidelines, but Mrs. Moss excelled in cross court drives that were not easily returned.

Mrs. Hicks took the lead in both sets, but Mrs. Moss, by steady playing, gradually pulled level, forcing both sets to deuce. The effort to draw even was a bit too much for her in both instances, however, as she did not appear to have enough strength left to keep up the hard pace she had set.

In some of the games there was some lively volleying that kept the spectators much interested. Both players also made some very remarkable returns, Mrs. Hicks being particularly brilliant in this department. Some of her "gets" bordered on the "impossible" order and there is no doubt that these displays of agility had much to do with the final result. It must have been discouraging to Mrs. Moss, at times, to find herself forced to meet and return a ball that she had already sent back for what looked like a certain placement or kill.

The length to which the games were drawn out had the effect of slowing both players toward the end. The weather recently has been so windy that practice has been out of the question, consequently neither finalist was in as perfect physical fettle as would have been the case had the contestants had opportunities for practice. Mrs. Hicks' victory can be attributed in large part to her greater stamina.

At the conclusion of the games Sir Skinner Turner presented the trophy emblematic of the championship to the winner, who also received a special cup donated by Mrs. Pearson, winner of the title last year.

The Dog Watch

By Westa

SHANGHAI ought to have a daylight saving law. In recent weeks I have suggested this to numerous friends and acquaintances, just to see what they thought about it, and in each instance the response was affirmative.

Well, then, why don't we have a daylight saving law?

The reason we don't have it is because there is no organised effort to bring it about. Probably nobody ever so much as asked the esteemed Council to set the clocks back. The esteemed S.M.C. is absolutely unique among the world's legislative bodies in that it always functions perfectly without the necessity for any outsider putting his foot on the accelerator, and the single delinquency that may properly be charged against that august body, i.e. the failure to enact a daylight saving ordinance, is the one exception that proves the rule of its infallibility.

TO the outsider looking in there does not appear to be a single valid reason why Shanghai should not have a daylight saving provision. There are not many train or steamboat schedules to consider as at home. The farmers here, unlike those in western countries, probably wouldn't care a hoot, since most of them get up at midnight anyway in the effort to beat the others to Hongkew market in the morning; in short, if there is anybody who would be against such a scheme there are a lot of us who would like to see the color of his hide.

IF we had daylight saving here our time would approximate sun time, whereas under the arbitrary arrangement now prevailing we waste daylight in the morning and grope around in darkness in the evening, all unnecessarily. One reason for this is the fact that Shanghai is near the eastern edge of its time zone—a circumstance that makes this city an hour later in getting up and an hour earlier to bed than would be the case if the accident of location had placed us on the western edge of the same zone, in which event we would have had the same time as now, but with an hour more of daylight in the evening.

The city of Detroit, Mich., had this same problem, and solved it just as it should be solved here, namely, by adopting a daylight saving scheme. Detroit is in the central time zone, whereas Pittsburg, only a few miles east, is in the Eastern time zone. So the Detroiters said: "Maskee the time zone; we are going to have the same time as Pittsburg."

And so they turned their clocks back.

Detroit, therefore, has the same time as Pittsburg and New York and other cities in the Eastern time zone and in the summer, when the daylight saving law becomes effective in those cities Detroit follows suit, so that the Michigan city really gets two hours more of daylight.

And look at the result: The last census showed that Detroit had jumped from ninth to fourth place among American cities. Doesn't that prove the fallacy of the old wheeze about the early bird catching the worm, and show that the best time to lasso the said worm is the night before?

These facts, if presented to the Council, undoubtedly would cause that esteemed body to wonder why it hadn't thought of such an excellent idea before, and to promulgate the needed ordinance forthwith.

Napoleon And Mary Jones

Imagine a statement something like this in the year 2023: "Of course I know about Mary Jones, but who was this man Napoleon?" A trifle far-fetched, we admit, but the exaggeration is defensible. Napoleon's light is growing feebler with the years. He was not only a dismal failure, for all his glory, but the man in our times who tried his best to imitate him failed as signally. The Napoleon complex is about over. But the Mary Jones idea is gathering weight and momentum every year says the San Francisco Journal.

Mary Jones lived contemporaneously with Napoleon. It is certain the great emperor never heard of her, and quite as certain that she never heard of him, for she was only a child. She started out one day from her Welsh village, barefoot and tramped among the hills inquiring for a Bible. And that started a movement which has not as yet subsided, the Bible Society. Out of the Bible Society came new life for the Sunday school. And from the Sunday schools of the British Isles and the United States have gone millions of Mary Joneses and Johnny Joneses to build a world more real than any ever dreamed of being founded on the Napoleonic scheme.

The Sunday schools of America are getting under way for the winter work. It is quiet work, for most part, and too frequently sneered at in a careless spirit. But it is work that is steadily influencing the character of the race, tending toward that ideal which all wise men agree is sorely needed—the spiritualizing of human life.

Three Runs Made By Fire Brigade

Three alarms were answered by the Settlement fire brigade Wednesday, night and yesterday. At 1:21 a.m. Sinza division responded to a call from N. 1528 off Avenue Road, where a Chinese house was found in flames. The blaze had originated in firewood stored there. It was extinguished with hand pumps.

At 2:39 a.m. Central division responded to a call from Avenue Edward VII and Foklen Road but returned to the station when it was found that the fire was in the French Concession.

At 4:20 p.m. Sinza and Jessfield substation were called to 40 Edinborough Road. A matched and outhouse in the rear were found in flames. Lines were laid and the blaze was extinguished in half an hour, the damage being confined to the outhouse and shed.

If She Would Be Happy Modern Bride Must Be Up on Husband's Art

Ethel Talbot Cohen Believes Day of Drudge Is Passed and That of Equality Really Here

New York City.—"No girl who marries an artist without a working interest in his art can expect happiness!"

So Ethel Talbot Cohen, who is spending her vacation tune shopping with her husband here, warns summer brides.

Mrs. Cohen herself a professional musician, has degrees from Trinity College and Cambridge University, London. She played in orchestras with her husband before her marriage and also in orchestras he conducted. As a matter of fact, their romance began in an orchestra pit.

Since their marriage, Mr. Cohen has become musical director of one of the largest theatres in America, the Missouri of St. Louis. Mrs. Cohen helps him prepare all programs and special features, and the marvelous musical events at the Missouri are due to the joint efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Cohen.

Mrs. Cohen is very fond of American music and optimistic for its future. She believes no amount of "uplift" or "highbrow" art will kill the public's love for the ballad type of song.

In her tune shopping she found Irish melodies still very popular. "River Shannon Moon", a favorite Irish waltz, is one of her chief prizes from the expedition.

"The Irish tunes will always be successful waltzes," she asserted. "They are not of the fox trot variety and their charm lies, I think, in the fact that they are inseparable from the waltz. They indeed seem to be the music for which waltz steps were originated."

Orders For Expedition Against Tsao Kun Are Issued By Sun Yat-sen

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Oct. 12.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has issued his orders for the Northern expedition against President Tsao Kun. He has also issued orders for the arrests of all Members of Parliament, who have voted for President Tsao Kun, charging them with having accepted bribes for their votes.

The Cantonese now-a-days are not so much concerned with the question of the legality of the Peking Presidency as with their own affairs. The land inquisition in Canton is still in progress. The military authorities are selling Government lands and buildings in order to rise war funds.

A reward of 20% from the proceeds of the sale is given to everyone informing the Government of the position of Government lands, and as a result sometimes as many as seventy or more streets and large sections of property have been reported as Government property. At the present moment thousands of homes are in danger. Large sections of the city, including parts of Tungchan, Honan and Wengshe, are claimed as originally Government lands, unlawfully occupied by the present land holders.

General Tang Chi-yao has sent many troops and a large quantity of opium to Kwangsi overland. So far the Yunnanese have not shown their colours, although there have been minor engagements which may have been due to misunderstanding. The object of the expedition is not yet known here.

Mr. Chau Lu, a leading member of the Kuomintang, has tendered his resignation to Dr. Sun Yat-sen as Commissioner of Finance, but Dr. Sun is asking him to continue in office. The chaotic conditions of Kwangtung finance owing to the seizure by the troops of revenue offices make the post a very difficult one.

Full Text Of Peking's Second Lincheng Reply

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 16.—The following is the text of the second reply of the Waichiaopu on the Lincheng affair:

M. Le Doyen.—I have the honour to inform your Excellency that the Chinese Government have taken under careful consideration the Note of the Diplomatic Body of October 4 in further reference to the Lincheng incident, and while they regret that the observations and assurances of their Note of September 24 last failed to persuade the Diplomatic Body to modify its position, they are nevertheless disposed, in deference to its wishes, to give further consideration to its Note of August 10 last.

As regards the matter of "Damages", Your Excellency will recall that in their Note of September 24 the Chinese Government have declared their intention to do in the fullest measure possible what would be equitable in the way of reparation for the foreign victims of the Lincheng incident, and announced their readiness to accept as the basis of classification and assessment the three categories of damages enumerated in the Note of August 10 from the Diplomatic Body. There remains the question of the "supplementary indemnities" for individual cases. In the furtherance of that intention I have the honour to state that the Chinese Government are prepared to agree in principle to the inclusion of the damages specified in the said category as an additional basis of appraisement, reserving for later discussion the nature of these damages and the reasonableness of the amounts.

Of the four Chinese officials named under the heading of "Sanctions" in the Diplomatic Body's Note of August 10 last, I stated in my reply of September 24 that three had been dismissed from their duties and the fourth was already under consideration for punishment in conformity with Chinese law. I now have the honor to inform your Excellency that the Ministry of War which had been entrusted with the duty of considering the punishment of the Military Governor of Shantung, Tieh Chung-yu, has submitted its report and acting thereupon the Chinese Government have by a Presidential mandate of October 14 relieved the said Military Governor of his post.

The Chinese Government have been fully conscious of the necessity of repressing brigandage in certain inland parts of the country, which is the more deplorable because its depredations extend to the peaceful nationals of the foreign Powers. It brought about the Lincheng incident and has given rise to the two recent cases in Hupeh and Honan to which reference was made in the Diplomatic Body's Note of Oct. 4, with a view to its elimination, the Chinese Government had, as was stated in my Note of September 24 adopted measures to pursue the bandits, and since the receipt of the Diplomatic Body's Note under reply they have despatched renewed orders to the Provincial authorities to redouble their efforts in the prosecution of this essential duty on their part. As regards the reforms to be effected in the system of policing and protection on the principal railways, I stated in my last Note that the Chinese Government look upon the whole matter of railway policing and protection as an urgent problem of China's internal administration, of which they are fully conscious of their responsibility for a practical solution. I wish again to assure Your Excellency, however, that while the Chinese Government cannot commit themselves to the scheme or schemes which the Diplomatic Body intends to present, they fully appreciate the interest which it takes in this problem and its readiness to collaborate.

The Chinese Government sincerely believe that a vigorous and sustained campaign against brigandage, together with the new measures for the protection of the principal railways, will result in a decided improvement in the situation as regards the safety of travel and residence in the interior of China.

I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to Your Excellency the assurance of my highest consideration.

(Signed) WELLINGTON KOO.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 18.—According to Chinese press reports, it appears that the Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps is now making a strong demand for explanation to the Chinese Government over the fact that the latter has appointed General Tien Chung-yu as Shan huang Chun. It is reported that the Chinese Government will either explain to the Diplomatic Corps that the appointment of General Tien as Shan Chuang Chun means his degradation according to precedents or take some other appropriate measures.

SHANGHAI HAD GOOD HEALTH IN SEPTEMBER

Death Rate Is Normal, Cholera Less, Intestinal Diseases More

The health of the community was satisfactory during the month, the death-rates among both foreigners and Chinese being below normal, according to the report by commissioner of Public Health C. Noel Davis for September.

Cholera, which was moderately prevalent during the summer, declined markedly, there being 24 deaths among the Chinese compared with 57 during the previous month.

At the same time, other diseases of the Intestinal Group, namely, Typhoid, Paratyphoid and Dysentery, became more prevalent, and this increased prevalence coincided as usual, with the advent of the fruit season. Anybody who has observed the dense swarms of flies accompanying the cargoes of fruit from fruit-growing districts will realise how dangerous it must be to eat such fruit unsterilised in view of our knowledge of the power of the fly to carry and transmit the germs of communicable disease.

Simple measures for the sterilisation of food are given in the Public Health notice which can be freely obtained from the Public Health Department or from any of the Branch Health Offices.

Smallpox has been smouldering in Hongkong all the summer, and a number of cases have occurred during the past few months among refugees, and others who had neglected vaccination.

The risk of being infected with the disease in Shanghai this winter will probabaly be greater than usual, and for this reason, a special notice has been issued urging all to protect themselves by vaccination or re-vaccination.

Smallpox is the typical preventable disease, and vaccination is the typical, and natural, method of specific prophylaxis. It has been estimated that 60 million people died of smallpox during the XVIIIth century. Since the discovery and establishment of vaccination in 1796 by Jenner, smallpox has lost its terrors for the wise and prudent. Because of the persisting presence and virulence of smallpox in China all people coming out for the first time should be efficiently vaccinated before arrival, and afterwards every three years in order to maintain a high immunity. The best time is in October or early in November before the winter sets in.

-:- Men And Women -:-

BY KATHLEEN MORRIS

"I've just been reading an extremely unconvincing article that claims that men are happier than women," I said at a luncheon the other day.

"Married men and women?" some girl inquired.

"All sorts—It was very silly of course!"

"Silly!" said all the other nine women at once. "Silly? It was absolutely right."

"Oh, but you can't think that, generally speaking, men are happier than women?"

"Can't think?" they echoed scornfully. "We don't have to think. We know."

Reasons followed in floods.

Men had everything their own way from the moment they were born.

Men were stronger, their health was better.

Men didn't have to fuss; men didn't worry as women do; men didn't have the babies——

"Most married men have it easier than their wives," a small girl of nineteen summarised it cheerfully. "And there's nothing in the world so snappy as a bachelor's life—if he has a little money and isn't cross-eyed."

"I remember almost hating my brothers, I envied them so," a lovely woman of sixty confessed, smiling reminiscently. "That was when I was quite young, of course.

"Later, when they had graduated from college and were working hard in the firm, my father took mother and me around the world, and I remember feeling sorry for them, but before that it was all allowances for the boys—good times for the boys—pleasure, consideration, lenience for the boys!"

"And even then," said a younger woman, with resentment, "you were in your father's charge—you couldn't have been out all night without breaking his heart and your mother's!"

"I didn't want to!" the elderly woman said, startled.

"No, but your brothers could!" said the other.

"I suppose there was never a woman to whom purity and self-control and essential decency mean more than they do to me," she went on. "But when I am decorously going to the theater in any city with George and see a group of laughing, murmuring, happily absorbed boys off for an evening of fun, I feel resentful and jealous—I can't help it!

"They aren't bound for any especial place, or eager to do any particular thing—sometimes it's an old bookstore, or a movie. I remember my brothers telling me of wonderful exploring trips through old Chinatown in San Francisco and into the streets of the Latin Quarter. This year I met three delightful boys whose parents had taken them and their sister to Europe for the long vacation. Mother and dad and Mary went to the opera or to some restaurant to dinner—half the time the boys were free to roam about by themselves. And how they loved it!

"Yes, I know," she conceded smilingly, as one of the other women began significantly to shake her head, "in the old days that would have meant saloons and gambling and women, and all the rest of it, but these were modern boys, brought up to respect themselves, and the wives and children they hope to have some day.

"It isn't that one grudges men their pleasures," an earnest young woman said thoughtfully, "but one laments the—the unpensed pleasures that are going to waste about us women all the time!

"We could be so much freer, we could have so much more fun, really innocent fun, now that harems and moats and drawbridges don't shut us in. But there's the everlasting feeling that it isn't safe!"

"Perhaps it wasn't safe for women to go about unprotected in the fourteenth century but one feels that conditions have changed even if ever so slightly, since then!

"I'll guarantee that everyone of us here could do exactly what our fathers and brothers do with perfect safety—saunter along brightly lighted streets, go in and out of big hotels and clubs, sit at restaurant windows or in theaters. But we don't.

"Well, they go off to business every day," a woman who has been conspicuously unsuccessful in the business of being a woman, said defensively.

"They meet their friends, they lunch with them, they have interests and distractions!

"Now look at these midsummer encampments of the two big clubs," she went on, in a tone of complaint. "When Walter begins to pack for those two weeks in the big woods I could shoot him, it makes me feel so jealous and I remember feeling just the same with Frank.

"They get out blankets, tackle, poker chips, they buy new boots and new shirts, they telephone each other: 'When are you going up? I'm going Tuesday? Come along with Bill and me Tuesday, that'll give us a fine bridge game.'

"They get up to that wonderful grove," she went on, as the other women nodded sympathetically, "they have music and entertainment and companionship, and wonderful meals, and days and days—"

"Yes," somebody said in the pause. "But suppose a hundred or two of us professional and working women got together, bought an old farm, arranged an auditorium and managed to take our vacations all together, wouldn't we have just as much fun?

"No!" answered the unsuccessful one fretfully. "If there's anything sickening and stupid in this life, it's to have a bunch of women get together!

The other women laughed now, but somewhat under protest. And a new-comer from the East said seriously:

"It used to be a little like that, perhaps. But we're outgrowing that, just as we're outgrowing papers upon Garibaldi and 'the influence of Milton upon the Georgian poets,' in our clubs. We do change, and we want to change more.

"I know a group of working women in my home city, most of them young and almost all of them poor, and every Summer they migrate up into the mountains, where they swim and tramp and cook and even hunt and fish with all the freedom men have.

"They have two weeks, or perhaps three, apiece, and on the last night there is always a splendid entertainment, with singers and actresses drawn right from their own ranks. I suppose it costs them one fiftieth of what men would spend, but after all, it's a beginning.

"And it is astonishing to be at one of their meetings, and see with what genuine brotherhood—no, we need the word we use so much less often!—how much genuine sisterhood is developing among them. Their talk isn't all of men and sex and marriage, as some men like to think it might be!

"I actually know women," she finished, "who could put marriage as normally into their lives as men can—just another condition, like a new child or a new job—a lovely and desirable condition, of course, but no longer 'woman's whole existence!'"

"They like to climb into a motor car occasionally, with three or four other men, and go off for days—and forget us! Whereas, most women, all women perhaps, feel just a little blank if the party is unbalanced for the want of one man.

"I can't imagine asking only women to go on a trip with me for the best sort of a good time. Yet with what utter simplicity we take it for granted that men are going to have their best times without us!"

"I loathe the calm complacency of the brutes!" said a new voice cheerfully. There was a laugh, and then the little Easterner said:

"We women are too complex. We're always afraid of missing something! It isn't enough for us to be in clean clothes, and rested, and well fed, and free to wander about under trees and talk and listen to music. Every one of us would be watching the caterer out of the corner of her eye if he happened to be the only male about the premises"——

"I don't care, it's all men's fault!" struck in the deep voice of an Americanised European.

"We women are a predatory race, we have to be. We have to beg and wheedle and flirt and yield—or we are lost! Or perhaps it is only that we did, and we are slow to realise our power and freedom now.

"I shall marry a rich man," said the voice of an eight-year-old niece in my ear, as she assiduously finished the prune whip, "and have two boys and two dear little girls and a baby, and then have him die and be a widow, 'cause that's the best of all, isn't it?"

But in the general hubbub it was fortunately possible to stifle with wrapped taffies the horrible voice of the coming generation.

Heroines Of History

How Friend Lydia Saved George Washington's Army

BY MARK STUYVESANT

Second Street in Philadelphia is but two blocks removed from the Delaware River and is now one of the busiest thoroughfares.

But in 1777 this thoroughfare was a quiet residential street lined with quaint red brick houses like that of William Penn, who had been the founder of the colony of which Philadelphia was the metropolis.

In one of these houses lived a quiet little Quaker lady, known as "Friend Lydia." Although she appeared peaceful and quiet to those who saw her going sedately to market or diligently knitting by the window, in her heart was anything but peace. The reason was that across the street from her house were the headquarters of General Howe, the British general, then in possession of the city.

On several occasions the British staff officers had used one of Lydia's rooms as a meeting place for secret conferences and her blood boiled at the thought.

On a snowy day in December of that year, a message was brought to Lydia that her room was desired that night. The order carried the command that she should see that her family were all in bed at an early hour.

In her quiet way, the good lady went around the house arranging for an early dinner, and she managed to get her family off to bed shortly after eight o'clock.

She had a presentiment that there was a serious plan to be discussed in her house this night. So when the soldiers opened her door and she heard their boots shuffling up the stairs, she trembled.

Lydia had not undressed and gone to bed. She lay on the bed worrying. Then she got up. She felt that she must know what was going on above her. Her country was in danger. Perhaps she could avert a disaster.

Bravely she slipped out of her room in her stocking feet, crept up the stairs and pressed her ear against the keyhole. She heard a long official order being read by the officer in charge. It gave directions for a secret night attack on the American army, which was encamped outside the city at Whitemarsh.

Lydia slipped down stairs and made her plans for the following day.

She did not care to take her husband into her confidence, for if her scheme miscarried he would be implicated and she could not bear to bring trouble to him.

What she must do, she must do alone, she told herself. After breakfast she resolutely told her husband that she was going to Frankfort to the mill for some flour.

Now, Frankfort was a long distance from her home—five miles. But the brave little Quakeress took her bag and trudged through the snow toward the American camp.

Arriving at Frankfort, Lydia left her bag with the miller and hurried on toward the American encampment. As she was wearily making her way through the heavy snow some horsemen approached her.

Her heart sank. But when she saw the blue uniforms her spirits rose as she signaled the leader.

Quickly and in very few words she told her story. The officer grasped her hand and hurried back to his headquarters.

Lydia returned to the miller and when she arrived at her home with her heavy bag of flour, she all but fainted with fatigue.

Several days later one of the officers who had met in her house came swaggering into her parlor and demanded to know if anyone had been up on the night of the memorable meeting in her upper chamber.

Lydia demurely lowered her head as she replied that the entire household had gone to bed shortly after eight.

As the officer left her door she heard him say:

"I am altogether at a loss to conceive who could have given the information to Washington of our plans. When we arrived near his army, we found his cannon mounted and trained to blow us to kingdom come and all of his troops ready for action. We had to march back like a parcel of fools."

Lydia bade him good-day and fell to her knees to give thanks for her privilege of being an instrument in saving her country's army.

Cereal Crops Are Better This Year

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 17.—The world's cereal crops will be much better in 1922-23 than in 1921-22 owing to more favourable atmospheric conditions. The American wheat crop will be approximately equivalent to that if the preceding year. The European crop will be much superior, and in British India and Australia production will be slightly superior.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 18, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each unchanged in London yesterday. The New York price is unchanged and the London New York cross rate has declined to 455.

The only changes in our official quotations here today were a drop in the Rupee rate to 219½ and a rise in the Franc rate to 1145.

Our market here today was steady at the opening, firmed up somewhat later in the day but eased off again at the close. The highest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3s. 0⅞d. for October delivery, 3s. 0⅞d. November and 3s. 0⅞d. December.

There were, however, good buyers at these rates at the close. There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 69⅝ for near and forward deliveries and buyers at 69¾, and sellers of Yen at 70¼ and buyers at 70⅛.

Banks were quoting 3s. 1⅜d., 71¼ and 1190 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

There was no business done in the London silver market yesterday but the market is reported as quiet and featureless.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—The London price of silver for "Spot" at 31⅝d. is the same as last week. The quotation for two months forward is 31⅛d. Fluctuations have been slight, but India has been buying, and their accumulations in Bombay of silver will, it is reported, amount to at least 17,000 bars by the end of October. Our rate for T.T. on London has remained unchanged at 3s. 0½d. In the absence of exchange business of any importance in connection with Imports and Exports, our market remained steady. At the close the tendency is easy.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 25,265,000, an increase of Tls. 937,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $40,820,000, a decrease of $490,000.

Estimated value Tls. 54,655,000 as against Tls. 67,267,000 held at this time last year.

Kota Bahroe Estate Meeting

The third annual general meeting of shareholders of the Kota Bahroe Rubber Estates (1921), Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the secretaries and general managers, Messrs. A. R. Burkill & Sons, 2 Canton Road.

The chairman's speech was as follows:

Gentlemen: The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission, follow the usual course and take them as read.

Since the last report, the producing area has been increased by 126 acres which now brings the tapping area up to 1,241½ acres.

With the exception of Sikamat Estate which only commenced tapping in November last, all the Estates were in tapping throughout the year. Full statistics of all the Estates are now shown in the report but those of Sikamat cover only a period of 7 months' working. On Kota Bahroe, Gunong Rapat and Canning Estates, tapping was carried out on the system known as the alternate day V cut but on Sikamat a different system was adopted. On the resumption of tapping on this Estate, it was decided to still rest certain areas and only tap over an area of 130 acres, the system being a V cut on half the tree daily over the entire area for 4 months and then rested for 4 months.

All the properties were kept in a clean weeded condition at fairly moderate costs. The weeding costs on Canning were considerably higher than those of the other properties due to the trouble experienced in weeding the young clearings in the low lying areas. A few cases of disease common to most rubber estates were reported and preventive measures were immediately put in hand. A number of trees were thinned out during the year and work in this direction will be systematically carried out during the current year. Labor is ample for all present requirements and the health of the various forces has been consistently good throughout the year. The Estates have been regularly visited by Major G. Nevill Stevens whose reports show that all work is being maintained at a very high standard and shows considerable improvement over previous years.

In connection with the accounts, there is very little for me to say. The net result of the year's working shows a profit of Tls. 31,819.87 which under the circumstances cannot be regarded as unsatisfactory. As you are aware, for the first four months of the year under review, prices were anything but remunerative and it was not until the introduction of compulsory restriction that prices began to improve. The company has therefore only had the benefit of the better prices for two-thirds of the year. After deducting the profit for the year from the amount of Tls. 70,083.02 brought forward from last year's accounts, there remains at debit of Profit and Loss Account an amount of Tls. 38,263.15 which the directors recommend be carried forward to next year's accounts.

Under the Export Restriction Anactment, the Estates are allowed to export 288,951 lbs. but as the allowance is regulated by the price of rubber, this figure may be subject to revision. Based on these figures, however, it is estimated that we shall be able to produce this crop at an "all-in" cost, including Shanghai charges, of approximately 41 cts. per lb. The estimates from the Estates upon which this figure is based are drawn up on a fairly liberal scale and I have no doubt that in actual working a considerable reduction in this figure will be effected. Of course, it must be borne in mind that Kota Bahroe Estates will always be at a disadvantage as far as costs are concerned owing to the scattered nature of its properties, requiring the services of three European managers. This naturally makes our costs under the heading of Superintendence higher han Companies owning single Estates and to overcome this, efforts are being made to dispose of the Sikamat Estate which, as you are aware, is situated at a considerable distance from our properties.

A forward sale of 4 tons monthly July-December 1923 at a price of 66¾ cts. per lb. f. o. b. Singapore has been made.

Before concluding, I would like to take this opportunity of recording the Board's appreciation of the good work done by the managers and Estate staff, the visiting agent and the Penang agents.

If any shareholder has any questions to ask, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability.

The following resolutions were then passed:

That the report and accounts for the year ended June 30th, 1923, together with the recommendation as to appropriation of balance at debit of Profit & Loss Account as presented be accepted.

That the appointment of Mr. C. R. Burkill as a director of the company be confirmed.

That Mr. N. G. Maitland be re-elected a director of the company.

That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews be re-elected auditors to the company at an annual remuneration of Tls. 400 for Shanghai and Penang.

What more distressing than to be awakened in the middle of the night by the cries of a sick baby or little child! You are startled and hardly know how to act. The hour is too late to summon the doctor. What are you to do until morning, when he can be called if still required?

The answer is simple; Baby's Own Tablets most probably are all that is needed. These little Tablets are pleasant and tasteless, easily administered because they crush at slight pressure to a powder; quickly allay fever or teething pains, relieve colic, indigestion, croup; check diarrhoea; quiet the nerves, send the child back to calm health-restoring sleep in a natural way simply by removing the cause of its trouble. Guaranteed harmless even to the newly-born infant, chemists sell them, or post free, 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

The Racket In The Philippines

THE time has at last arrived when the Administration in Washington must place itself squarely on record concerning the future administration of the Philippines. The passage of the resolution by the Philippines Legislature demanding the recall of Governor-General Wood leaves no alternative. Congress and the President must act and either call General Wood back to the United States or let the Filipino politicos know once and for all that the United States intends to administer the Philippines so long as they belong to the United States.

THE CHINA PRESS has no doubt as to what the decision will be. General Wood has, in the past, proven on innumerable occasions that he is one of the most able of American administrators. He is a good and just man in every respect, has a splendid civilian and military record behind him, and is thought of in the highest possible terms by the American people.

In the Philippines his administration has been devoted to protecting the Filipinos against spoliation by their own leaders. He has been bitterly attacked by political mud-slingers but their attacks have only strengthened him in his determination to see justice done. And THE CHINA PRESS certainly has not been behindhand in warning the politicos that this would be the result of their attacks.

The Filipino leaders headed by Quezon have done everything possible to cripple the administration, but they have only crippled themselves and their cause. The Cabinet resigned in an emergency. General Wood promptly promoted the Under-Secretaries—who were very probably the ones who were doing the real work, anyway—and the government carried on without hesitation. Mayor Fernandez resigned—and General Wood appointed an able successor. The politicians who compose the legislature and who in the main are under the thumb of Quezon—have refused in every way to cooperate. But the government under the direction of General Wood is functioning with increased efficiency.

It will still be carrying on when Quezon and his cohorts are forgotten. The people of the United States will not allow General Wood to be recalled from the task he assumed at their earnest behest until he has carried it to completion. When the people of the Philippines begin to show some appreciation of efficient and honest government, they will be almost ready for self-government.

The scientists say that there are germs in the kiss of a pretty sheba, but that doesn't matter. No germ could survive a kick like that!

The Mysteries Of Banditry

Readers may be getting tired of the subject of banditry, but not half so tired as the unfortunate persons who are condemned to experience personally what it means to be subject to it. If the Chinese would give over the practice of banditry we would only be too pleased to give the topic a rest, but as long as outrage succeeds outrage it is necessary to keep the alarm sounding, says the Central China Post. Banditry has got to be suppressed, not only for the sake of the foreigners in the country but for the relief of the raided natives whose sufferings are as the Lushan compared with one of the little knolls at its foot, which is the share of devilishness that foreigners have to put up with. To shut our eyes and stop our ears, in the hope that in the course of time things will mend, would only be the trick of the fool ostrich which hides its head in the sand in the presence of danger and gets caught by the pursuing hunter. There are many pleasanter topics but till some cure has been found for banditry there is no getting rid of this one.

There are many mysteries connected with banditry for which foreigners can never find a satisfactory explanation, but the consideration of a few may be profitable. Indeed it might not be a bad plan to hold a Conference and go thoroughly into the whole matter. At such a Conference we would point out that:—

The whole of China is by no means bandit ridden, although the regions which are free from the pest are daily becoming fewer and smaller. How comes it that in one province the bandits are allowed free scope while another one, immediately adjacent, is never troubled by the freebooters? Of all the provinces Honan is perhaps the worst, while north of it, only across the Yellow River, Shansi is quite peaceful. It is the poorer province of the two; it is full of hills and desert districts, well suited for bandit hiding places, and it possesses no army to speak of to hold them in check, yet there is never any word of bandit outrages there. The explanation is that this particular province has had the good fortune to be left in the hands of a capable and energetic Tutuh, Yen Hsi-shan, who is devoted to the welfare of his people. He was placed in office at the revolution, and has contrived to hold his post right along till now, carefully keeping aloof from all the struggles of political parties and slowly building up what has come to be called "The Model Province."

Alongside Shansi, again across the Yellow River, is the province of Shensi which only a few years ago was the most distracted province of all. It was practically wholly in the hands of bandits, and there was hardly a corner of it where life and property could be regarded as safe. But this was changed with the arrival of a new Tuchun who has been busy restoring order. In our Monday's issue our correspondent at Sianfu, the Capital, wrote of him as follows:—

Sianfu, Sept. 23.

It is a pleasant change to report that, while other provinces are mostly infested with bandits, the usually turbulent province of Shensi is to outward appearance at least comparatively peaceful. Our Tuchun has been particularly active and watchful, and at a time when banditry was spreading in the East, he himself went out with a band of reliable men—remaining out night after night from sunset to sunrise—scouring the country around the capital and along the more important roads, and so cleared the near Eastern main road. His evident determination to keep the road open for travellers and merchandise, and his energetic way of attaining his end, has produced a good effect, and now people from the East breathe freely as they reach Tung Kuan, and leave Honan to enter Shensi.

From this it appears to be clear that whether a province becomes infested with bandits or not depends, not on the character of the country, or the disposition of the people, but on the kind of man who is in authority over it. If the right man is in office all well, and if all is not well it must be due to the fact that the power has fallen into the hands of the wrong man. With regard to the provinces of Honan and Hupeh, which are both of them bad, there is no doubt as to the name of the man responsible. It is Wu Pei-fu who maintains an absolute control of both, even down to the smallest matters, but has never been known to do anything in the way of putting down bandits, although he has at his disposal the strongest military forces in China. It cannot be believed for a moment that he could not clean up the bandits with ease if so disposed, and that he does not do it must be because he has no such wish. The same thing is true of Fengtien and Kirin who has become President. He was the Inspector-General of Shantung, a province in which bandits abound and which witnessed the Lincheng outrage. He was also the master of many armies but never used them for bandit suppression. The Foreign Ministers in their recent reply, to the reply of the Chinese Government re the Lincheng Note, comment on this curious fact. They say:—

"The local authorities do not manifest at this time any zeal in the repression of brigandage which is still rife in most of the provinces of China, while at the same time their best military forces continue to be employed in those civil wars which bring so much suffering and misery to the Chinese people."

Here another mystery arises. Since the high authorities could suppress banditry and will not do it there must be some reason for their inaction: what is it? Many answers may be given. One of these, which is rapidly gaining ground, is that banditry is sympathised with because of its usefulness as a means of getting rid of the foreigner. Before this accusation was made the Chinese Government was strongly protesting that the movement was not anti-foreign—a good hint to those who known the working of the native mind. All through their history the Chinese have been subject to anti-foreign fits. Here is an extract from "Williams Middle Kingdom": "In 1587, by their ill-conduct at Ningpo, the Portuguese drew upon themselves the vengeance of the people who rose upon them and distroyed twelve thousands Christians, including eight hundred Portuguese and burned thirty five ships and two junks." Those familiar with the history of John Company in early Canton days can recall many instances when the British were attacked without cause merely because they were not liked. The Yangtse riots of the early nineties were designed with the object of driving out the missionaries, according to the printed testimony of Ku Hung-ming at that time secretary to Viceroy Chang Chih-tung at Wuchang. He is still alive and may be cross-examined. Everyone knows that the reason why the Boxers were patronised was again the same old story, and to suppose that banditry is approved of with the same object in view is the most natural explanation. And it is working. The missionaries are being withdrawn, the agents of the big business firms are ceasing to travel, and trade is being brought to a stand still.

Correspondence

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir:

I was travelling in the 3rd class compartment of trailer No. B-142 attached to tram route No. 1 car No. B-172 which was going to Hongkew Park last evening. It was about 10 minutes to 6 that the car reached Azaleas Terrace where one passenger of the coolie class was found by the conductor not having paid full for his fare. Apparently this man boarded the car from North Szechuen Road Bridge, and the corner fare from there to the Park is 3 coppers; but he only bought a two-cent ticket. He was accordingly asked to pay for the difference but at first he refused, stating that the journey was practically finished. After some lively debate, however, the man yielded saying: "Do not argue so much, the best way to settle our dispute would be to divide half and half, that is one cent for you and one cent for myself, I do not want you to pocket the whole."

To this the conductor replied: "No, I will not take your money for nothing, and if you will give me your coppers, I will give you a ticket in return." Being satisfied the man tendered his fare to the conductor saying: "You conductors are well known for 'squeezing.'"

"Yes," retorted the conductor, "who does not know that we conductors do 'squeeze?'" Everybody knows that very well. All the Europeans and the Chinese know it, but who and what can prevent us from 'squeezing.' We doing this kind of job, must needs 'squeeze' and there is no help for it."

Now one should like to know what the Tramway Company's officials will say about this?

Yours, etc.

Our Monkey Kin And Others

By E. W. HOWE

I was once walking through a zoological garden and saw a sight which impressed me. A monkey had been provided with a house, where he might retire in inclement weather. The animal in a rage was engaged in destroying his own residence. With the satisfaction of a demon he ripped off board after board, shingle after shinge, and broke them up; he had no matches or no doubt would have set fire to the place and enjoyed the spectacle. Is it monkey ancestry that inspires the people of a nation to build patiently for years, and then revel in destruction and cruelty? Why do we seem to love the explosion of great guns, and know that their missles are destroying schools, homes, fields, churches, art galleries and human lives? Why did Napoleon spend his earlier years in sobriety that he might in later years engage in the humiliating return from Moscow? Does decent fame become so monotonous that men long for the horrible? Is it not surprising that a race of men who have harnessed steam and electricity, and done so well in other things, are still willing to destroy each other and their property? During the war millions of men were in arms slaying each other; and following them around were only a few teaching peace on earth and good will

I am able to make a guess at human actions in most resects, but when it comes to war I know nothing. In this the people are more easily influenced than in anything else. Usually men have a good deal of reshect for their lives and their pocket books, but in war they will forget both.

When you talk in private life probably you greatly bore those polite enough to listen, with your long, tiresome stories. You can at least shorten your recitals; tell in a minute what you have been devoting five minutes to. There is a good deal in what newspaper men call editing—cutting out unimportant details. There was lately a big news item. One paper I receive devoted two columns to it; another twelve. And the paper devoting two columns to the accident had the better account.

The old Greeks were noted for poetry, art, oratory, philosophy, the drama, and that sort of thing. Modern men make a specialty of mechanics, agriculture, business, engineering. And the world this year seems to me a much finer thing than it was when Athens was in its glory.

A man gets up in the morning takes a disagreeable cold water bath because he has been told it is good for his health, and then goes through a lot of exercises. Next he proceeds to eat a breakfast that isn't good for him, and drags off to his work, where he is only half efficient until noon. Then he eats again, and still further abuses his stomach. This process he repeats at 6 p.m. and devotes the evening to still further carelessness, expecting that a cold bath next morning and his exercises, will put him in condition.

"A man reaches marriage," Fenimore Cooper said, "almost as inevitably as he reaches his grave." And probably every man marrying believes he will be a better and happier husband than his father. But how much more wisely we manage marriage than some other things! Millions of the married who wish divorce patiently accept their fate as the common lot, instead of attending mass meetings to demand better conditions in matrimony. If men and women will accept the other natural ills of life as patiently as they accept matrimony they will be on the way to common sense.

The men in pursuit of money make less trouble than the big idealists with their experiments. When men start out to make money there is always some salvage; they pay out a great deal in making experimets, and probably more than half of them never get any return. Those who succeed employ men, and the labor unions properly see that good wages are paid. But the money appropriated to oblige the big idealists is often entirely wasted. Every one has the same chance at making money. But every one does not have the same chance at trying out his socialogical experiments. I have a lot of ideas about bettering the world, but have no oportunity to put them in effect at public expense. No doubt you believe you have valuable ideas. Ever have billions of money placed at your disposal for giving them a trial?

You may usually make a good guess about everything; the probable is nearly always true.

I do not ask you to be indignant; so many outrages have gone on lately probably there is no more indignation left in you.

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

FAMILY TREES

Says Major Washington I. L. Adams, Governor of the Society of Colonial Wars:

"A family tree is a good thing to have. It does not in any way lessen our spirit of democracy to be able to boast of our ancestors. Wouldn't we all of us like to die knowing that, in generations to come, our children's children would look fondly at our splendidly retouched photographs and tell of our prowess and character?"

Some truth in this. But most of it is rubbish.

"If you must hang yourself," says the Talmud, "choose a big tree." Many, many people, satisfied with their ancestry, have hanged themselves upon their family tree.

A family tree is a good thing to have if it produces good fruit. The Kaiser of Germany and the Kaiser of Austria had family trees compared with which the oldest American family tree is a mere mushroom. These royal trees bore some good fruit. Frederick the Great was really great and Maria Theresa was a brilliant woman. But much of of the fruit was rotten.

The soldiers who fought in the Colonial wars were brave and patriotic. But they were no braver or more patriotic than the boys who fought in the Spanish-American War or in the World War. Nor half as clean and sober. Because those were different days.

All forms of boasting are in poor taste. When a man who has really accomplished something, boasts, he is a bore. When a man boasts of the accident of birth that one is able to boast is a poor sort of reflection.

Birth is an accident. A man cannot help it if he does not know who his father was. Therefore, the man who boasts that his ancestors were great people, is undemocratic.

It is strange to observe that the the really big men of history—and, in contemplating the past, they are the only ones who count—transmitted so little of their genius to their progeny. All they seem to have transmitted were family trees, money and pride.

Many a man whose grandfather was arrested for stealing a wig has a finer character and is a more worthy member of society than some people we know whose ancestors ruled kingdoms.

And any man whose mind—viz., that portion of his body which does his thinking for him—can concentrate itself, these days, upon the thought of his grandchildren gazing upon his "splendidly retouched" photograph, had better devote his life to golf and leave serious problems alone.

All of which is without the slightest disrespect toward Major Adams, who merely voices a rather widespread opinion.

-:- The Lawyer -:-

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

There are lawyers—and lawyers. Just as there are doctors and doctors. And ministers and ministers.

Of course, there are—because all sorts of men go into law or medicine or ministry.

The gamut from saint to sinner is represented in all the professions and all the vocations.

Everywhere, too, we may note the tendency to materialise and commercialise all the activities of our time.

The man who is "not in business for his health" is no more common than the salary or wage worker who is "not working for love."

Somehow the habit has grown to wax cynical about the lawyer in particular as the money-hungry man our day.

Without wishing to plead specifically for the pleading profession, the writer is pleased with the chance to tell a bit of the story of a lawyer and client of which he recently learned.

The lawyer in this story had rendered to the client in question a service so valuable that she sent him a sizable check with a most gracious letter of appreciation.

He replied: "Your check for Ten Thousand Dollars I return to you endorsed to your order. No monetary consideration prompted me to accede to the request that I should serve you.

"Mr. X was a good friend to me twenty-five years ago. He introduced me to you on such terms that I considered you members of his family, and if you were in trouble after his death it was the most natural thing in the world for me to respond with personal advice."

That sounds like the good, old-time chivalry that must have been common before money and the machine had so largely mammonised and mechanised human relations.

The client had written most enthusiastically of appreciating his effective devotion to the family's entangled interests.

"That you won every point fought for is, I know, rich compensation of its kind, but I beg you to accept, etc."

All of which is a beautiful exchange of amenities, all the lovelier because perfectly sincere on both sides.

Probably, if one but knew, there are many such exchanges of services rendered and received, for which payment is made and accepted in precious coin of the spirit.

The writer has known innumerable instances of such services by lawyers, physicians, and, of course, by ministers.

It is one of the problems of our complex, hurried, business-like modern life to preserve the human touch, to afford play to the spirit, and to give the heart a chance, even in our prosy workaday affairs.

-:- Thoughts In An Old Roman Camp In Gaul -:-

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Close by the old chateau of Berluhec, near Quimperle, in the Department Finistere, France, where I am writing this, there is an ancient mosscovered, circular wall of stones about a thousand feet in circumference, roughly but firmly built, and backed and surmounted on the inner side by a much higher earthen embankment, which rises twelve to fifteen feet above the level of the foot of the wall on the outer side.

This embankment is twenty-five feet thick at the base, rounded on the top and overgrown with trees and shrubbery. Most of the trees are towering firs, with a few huge beeches, and many have trunks from eighteen to thirty inches in diameter. That implies a great age, though nothing comparable with what tradition assigns to the wall and embankment, for it is a local belief that this was a Roman fortified camp, dating back perhaps almost to the time of Caesar's conquest of Gaul. The characteristic two opposite gateways still exist.

It is necessary to live, for a while, in intimate touch with these antiques in order to appreciate their thrilling influence over the imagination. They make history spring to life. They enable the eyes of the mind to penetrate the glare of the present, and to range deep into the past, with its tier beyond tier of abandoned stage-settings and dramatic figures that lack only motion, which the imagination can supply.

The circular interior, capacious enough to have contained in an emergency a whole legion of helmeted defenders, who had marched all the long way hither from Rome, is now a garden, filled with flowers, vegetables, ornamental trees (including—strange sight so far north—several palms) and enclosing on one side a tennis court.

It is bathed in sunshine on a bright day, and because there are no tennis players here now and little gardening work needed at present, I have the whole place, for hours at a time, entirely to myself. Sitting on a flower-embowered bench, at the foot of the inner slope of the embanked defensive ring, I have mused over thoughts which, however commonplace, never before presented themselves so vividly and suggestively. The place and its tradition gave them a new birth.

Why did those Romans come here and build fortifications to enable them to stay? What was Caesar in search of and with what hope did he nerve his legions to follow him? How did he nerve himself to order and witness the slaughter of the inhabitants of these distant regions,—men, women and children alike slain in cold blood by tens and hundreds of thousands (40,000 at Avaricum alone—and that after the place was taken)?

One of the most powerful of his inducements was that he wanted money! Rome was venal and he meant to go back and buy it. Caesar's celebrated campaigns in Gaul were great freebooting, piratical raids. Caesar's conquering legions were trained robber bands, practising disciplined murder and pillage under the eye of a master bandit. Rome despised Carthage because the great Phoenician city lived and prospered by commerce and exchange.

Rome's idea was different. Don't trade, but take! Don't carry goods to exchange, but carry arms to kill. The short way to get wealth is over the dead bodies of those who have what you want. Don't buy lands—seize them! These methods are what make the Romans noble and admirable. Commerce and trade are low-down and ignoble. So the cry was: "Delenda est Carthage!" (Down with Carthage!) because Carthage had wealth which could be seized, and because her example was distasteful to Rome.

As I sit in this now so quiet place, and remember what it may have witnessed when Rome was here in the spirit of her soldiery, putting down and governing all, keeping the whole land in subjection by fear and force, I am somehow led to sympathize more intensely than ever before with the underlying principle of the movement for the suppression of war.

Conquest never before looked so ugly to me. The great Roman Senate does not seem to nobly imposing when thought of under these trees of Gaul, descendants of those in whose shade the legions marched when hunting down the liberty loving natives.

The Senate backed Caesar because it, too, wanted money, and took it in the Roman fashion wherever it was to be found. Read the histories and annals again and see how Rome was veritably gorged with gold and treasure snatched wherever a Roman army could march. Rome conquered, held and governed Gual only to rob it systematically by tax and tribute. If she "civilised" it, she merely made it Roman instead of Gaulish, and did it to swell her own riches and increase her power to extend her larceny, with blood, over the whole world.

How blind we have been to listen only to the story of these things as told in Latin. Perhaps within this mouldering circle a Celtic bard has left his enchantments, which, though powerless against Rome, yet do not perish!

What Women Wear

It would be an interesting diversion for the student of costume to see how far back in the history of women's dress the bow can be traced. It would be hard to imagine a bow worn by Cleopatra or any other Egyptian, and bow knots certainly do not smack of Classic Greece or Rome.

But bows were worn in the Renaissance, though hardly ever in the Middle Ages. They are inseparably associated with the production of ribbons. Where there are ribbons, there women are pretty sure to want to tie them in bows. Bows became an obsession in the late eighteenth century and the graceful painted beauties of the court of Versailles just before the Revolution wore bows galore.

There was a symbolism in the tieing of a bow. You expressed your mood by the way you tied your ribbons. Hence the "true lovers' knot," still to be found on sentimental valentines, symbolic, with clasped hands and ruby red hearts, of loving devotion.

During the Directoire period the cocarde took precedence over the bow. It had political significance. You could show your political leanings by the sort of cocarde you wore, and women regarded it, at that time, as rather more important to reveal by their dress the tenor of their politics than the state of their affections.

Bows were worn again with much enthusiasm in the Second Empire period. Look through any fashion plates put on between 1850 and 1860 and see how many bows you can count—and how few gowns without any bows.

Now they speak of the "revival of the bow," just as if every one knew that more bows were being worn now than a year ago. The return of the bow no doubt may be traced partly to the very much increased interest in ribbons and to the incipient interest we have been taking in the mode of the Second Empire period.

Though ribbons doubtless had something to do with it, it is interesting to see that not all bows are tied in bows purely decorative or partly useful.

The sketch shows a frock of plain and printed crepe de chine trimmed with little bows of the material. The fashion observer always looking for historical precedent in all new turns of fashion may trace this tendency to place bows directly in the middle of the front to the Second Empire period when the same symmetrical arrangement was usual.

But we are not always so symmetrical in our use of bows. Sometimes an enormous bow made from a ribbon sash is tied over one hip and left there to give the silhouette a sort of a lop-sided effect quite contrary to the primness that was of the Second Empire.

THE GREATEST POWER

Sometimes a story illustrates a great principle, without helping in any way to explain it. An instance: Let us state, as a principle, without explaining it just yet, that silence is the greatest power in the world. The story: At a philosophical club a member was presented for admission. The rule was that before being elected, prospective members would have to pass one evening at the club. This member was brought in and given a chair and pipe. Nothing was said. Silence reigned. Finally the president of the club, just before the signal came that the evening was over, removed his pipe slowly and said "Yah." The candidate for admission thereupon, thinking, evidently, that something was up to him, replied by saying "Yah, yah!" He was promptly blacklisted because he talked too much.

Now, this is quite all right as a story, because it satirizes the utter apparent stupidity of philosophical clubs, but it is simply no good at all as an illustration of the great power of silence, which is one of the very few things that cannot be explained or illustrated, but must be believed only by experience.

I can, however, give an incident which will show my meaning. Some time ago a friend of mine asked me what was the greatest power in the world, and I immediately replied—as probably nine people would out of ten—"W... He said I was wrong and ... into a long argument to prove that personality was. There is, of course, much to be said in favor of both love and personality. But each one of these, while very great in itself, must be comprehended in silence, which reveals the perfection of faith. If we believe in God, as practically everybody does, then we must believe that he knows everything. Therefore the very highest tribute we can pay to him is to remain silent. We all of us know, for example, that the language of perfect love is quite beyond words and must express itself in its perfection, in absolute silence. Power is always limited by expression. The best writer, the best artist, even the best salesman, is always the man who knows what to omit.

TRY IT!

SANATOGEN'S power to increase nerve-energy has been definitely proved, in the words of Sir Charles A. Cameron. C.B., M.D., etc. President of the Royal Institute of Public Health:—

Sanatogen is an excellent nerve-food of the highest nutritive value, easily and completely digested.

Never forget that Sanatogen is a food, not a medicine or a "secret remedy." It increases nerve-energy by feeding the nerves—not by goading them with drugs or stimulants. Its action is as natural as that of any ordinary food: it must do good, and it cannot do harm. That is why doctors give it even to babies. And that is why so many Europeans in the East take Sanatogen regularly, all the year round—not as an occasional "tonic," but as a part of their daily diet. You should do likewise, if you want to keep your nerve-energy at the highest pitch, and to avoid the debilitating effects of the great heat

British Women's Association Notes

MRS. H. G. SIMMS

Mrs. Simms left for England on the s.s. Karmala on Tuesday and to the great regret of the Association will not be returning to China. She has been one of the staunchest supporters of the B. W. A., from the beginning and her ready sympatay and unfailing tact have always been at the disposal of its members. It is with very genuine regret they realise what the loss of her valuable services will mean to the Association and they unite in wishing her and her family "Bon Voyage" and a happy life in their new home.

Until the return of Mrs. Gull to Shanghai Mrs. O. M. Green will fill the position of Acting Chairman and Mrs. Clear that of the Acting Vice-Chairman.

FOREIGN RELIEF

Refugees are still coming in to be fitted out with clothing at Headquarters and the Relief Committee would be very glad to receive further gifts of warm garments of every description, particularly underclothing. From information received from Kobe it would appear that warm clothing or materials are almost unprocurable and this Committee are sending any surplus they may have at Headquarters to H. B. M's Consulate-General at Kobe for distribution.

Mrs. F. C. Harris of the Public School for Girls would be grateful for news of Miss Hilda C. Harrison whose name was mentioned as one of the survivors taken on board the s.s. Empress of Asia after the Earthquake, also the Associated Mission Treasurers (Cen. 650) would be glad of information as to the whereabouts of the Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Moore.

OLD ENGLISH FAYRE

A meeting of the organising committee with the section leaders and their helpers was held at Headquarters last Tuesday to make the final arrangements for the "Fayre" and as Mrs. Stitt was unable to be present Mrs. O. M. Green was in the chair. The section leaders and stall holders made their reports which were most satisfactory and a great spirit of enthusiasm was evident amongst the large number of members present.

Lady Turner said her stall which is an exhibition of goods from Messrs. Brandt, Messrs. Nestle and other British firms was progressing well and that Miss Pickering who is helping her would weigh all the babies brought to the stall and give advice on Baby welfare generally. Mrs. E. H. McMichael said she would be glad of gifts for her "Olde Curiosity Shoppe." Articles of any kind, large or small, old or new, in fact any white elephant would be much appreciated and should be addressed to her or Mrs. E. T. Byrne, care of Messrs. Hoffer and Co. 62 Kiangse Road. Mrs. Godby asked for small articles suitable for the "Houpla" booths to be sent to her at Headquarters and Miss Adlam said she was in need of gifts for the "Lucky Chance" stall. Mrs. Pett who is in charge of the Santa Claus toy stall would be grateful for all sorts of toys and Mrs. Dovey who has "Ye Village Shoppe" would be glad to receive contributions of any kind. Mrs. Cochrane speaking on behalf of the Dramatic Section said there would be a magnificent exhibition of boxing on Saturday night and there would also be several cinema shows during the two days of the Fayre. Mrs. Master told of the activities of the Sports Section and the many attractions which were being organised for the "Fun of the Fayre." These included a Roundabout, a chute, an Arial railway and many Aunt Sally and Houpla booths, as well as the magic hall of mirrors. She said she would be grateful to anyone who could lend donkeys for the children to ride as the number she had at present was quite inadequate.

The Literary Section "Booke Stall" is progressing well but Mrs. Hodges would be glad of some more books and Mrs. Nye of the "Home Produce Stall" would much appreciate gifts of jams, pickles, etc.

AUSTRALIAN STALL

Miss Venn-Brown who is organising the exhibition of products from Australasia gave a good report of the many articles which have been sent to their stall by all the leading firms of the Commonwealth. Large quantities of plum puddings, biscuits and cakes have been sent by Messrs. Swallow and Ariell and cases of tinned meat, fruits and jams from Messrs. Foggitt, Jones and Co., Ltd. Messrs. Hamilton of New Zealand also have sent tinned goods. Messrs. Geddes and Co. butter, flour and jams and the New South Wales Central Citrus Association has sent a large consignment of oranges.

There will also be a Glaxo Stall and a place where you can get the most attractive hats, belts, bags, etc. made out of beautiful Australian leather.

The Arthur P. Stewart Co. of Sydney have sent a selection of their "Akubra" felt hats for men and there are examples of every kind of wood grown in the Commonwealth even to railway sleepers from Queensland.

Miss Venn-Brown, 98 Avenue du Roi Albert (Tel. W. 3071) will be glad to furnish all information to those who are interested in the import of Australasian products into China.

ENTERTAINMENT SECTION

Mrs. Craddock reported that she was having the "Lavender Cottage" tea rooms and tea would be served from 3:30 to 6:30 at 30 cents each for children and amahs. She was also serving supper at the Cabaret dance at $1.50 per head and those who wished to book tables in advance for the Cabaret show on Saturday night could do so by communicating with Mrs. Massey, 23 Great Western Road, (Tel. W. 683) between the hours of 9 and 10:30 a.m. at the small cost of $1 per table.

The dinner at the Fayre on Saturday night which is being supplied by the New Carlton Limited (tables to be booked through them) will be $2.50 per head and will consist of real old English fare. It will commence at 8 o'clock and will be a boon to the many stall-holders and their helpers at the Race Course.

There will also be a delicious Japanese dinner for those who like eastern cooking so there will be no need for anyone to go home unless they are obliged to do so.

ART SECTION

Mrs. Roberts would be glad if those members and their friends who have promised pictures for the loan exhibition at "Ye Olde English Fayre" would send them to the Race Course on the afternoon of Wednesday, October 24, when she will be there to receive them at Nos. 3, 4 and 5 tiffin rooms.

NEEDLE CRAFT SECTION

The next meeting of this Section will take place on Monday, the 22nd, at Headquarters at 3:30 p.m.

GARDENING SECTION

This busy section reports that they have 12 to 15 varieties of seedling almost ready to transplant into the garden. These may be ordered now and include lettuce, endive, pansies, wall flowers, stocks, larkspur, Sweet William, Mignonette and other hardy annuals. Most of them have been sown in the ground and cannot be dug up and brought to the "Fayre" but will be sent direct to those who order them either by telephoning to Mrs. C. J. Scott (W 776) or by application at the Gardening Stall on the 26th and 27th of October.

Mrs. Nye is ready to take orders for the jars of delicious pickles and jams which are to be found amongst the many delectable articles to be seen at the home produce stall at the "Fayre."

The Shanghai Horticultural Society have formed a new section for exhibits, where clubs and societies may compete. Full details as regards the rules and regulations, etc. will be sent to each member of the gardening section in the near future.

The Gardening Department of the American Women's Club have been kind enough to extend an invitation to the B.W.A. gardening section to attend a lecture with exhibits by Mr. G. B. Fryer at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, the 24th inst. at No. 91 Kiaochow Road. The lecture will deal with "What, when, where and how to buy for your Garden" and should prove very instructive. As all its members are so busy making their arrangements for the Fayre this section will not meet again until Nov. 9 when Mrs. Craddock will be pleased to see them at her house No. 76 Route de Say Zoong at 4:30 p.m.

"Save your eyes."

A REASON FOR
that supremacy which so decidedly makes our glasses excel, is that we have precision instruments in the hand of a graduate optometrist to conduct scientific sight-testing, and a perfectly equipped shop in which to make high grade lenses.

Declares Tellegen Jilted Her

Lorna Ambler & Lou Tellegen

LORNA Ambler, beautiful Australian actress, named by Geraldine Farrar as one of the co-respondents in her sensational New York divorce from Lou Tellegen, announced that she was to marry Tellegen on September 27, when Miss Farrar's interlocutory decree became final. Tellegen rose up to say "'twasn't so," whereupon Miss Ambler said they were engaged, but she had been jilted by the actor.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the freight market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:

There is again no change to report in the Export trade from China to Europe or America and the market is dull and uninteresting. There is ample tonnage on the various berths to meet shippers' requirements.

TO U. S. VIA PACIFIC

No change to report on this berth since last writing.

COASTWISE

The situation as regards the coasting trade remains unchanged; cargo in the North is plentiful but buyers in the South are scarce owing to the continued uncertainty in the political situation and merchants are consequently very chary of committing themselves to any forward business.
